Academic Hematopathologist

The St. Michael’s Hospital/St. Joseph’s Health Centre Integrated Laboratory Medicine Department and the University of Toronto’s Department of Laboratory Medicine and Pathobiology, are seeking applications from qualified and highly motivated individuals to fill the position of a permanent Hematopathologist with expertise and/or experience in Transfusion Medicine, at the rank of Assistant, Associate or full Professor. Part-time positions limited to diagnostic Hematopathology or Transfusion Medicine will be considered. Leadership opportunities are possible within the Department. The anticipated start date will be January 1, 2019 or mutually agreed upon.

We are a very collegial laboratory medicine group, with a strong culture of scholarship. The successful candidate will provide excellence in Hematopathology diagnostic clinical practice, will provide medical support in Transfusion Medicine and participate in after hour call. The successful candidate will also contribute to the academic mission of the Department via participation and leadership in collaborative research and publishing scholarly work in the areas of diagnostic innovation, test utilization and/or clinical engagement would be an asset. The successful candidate must show evidence of excellent and innovative scholarship in teaching and education in undergraduate, post-graduate, fellowship, and continuing education.

The qualified applicant must be eligible for medical licensure in the province of Ontario and must be a Fellow, Royal College of Physicians or equivalent in Hematopathology. The successful candidate should be eligible for an academic appointment in the Department of Laboratory Medicine and Pathobiology. Fellowship training or demonstrated subspecialty expertise/commitment is required. Rank will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Salary will be in accordance with the uniform level of compensation in the Province of Ontario, currently set at $348,110/per annum. The Ministry of Health and Long Term Care has implemented a total compensation package that will equalize the successful candidate’s compensation with that of other Laboratory Physicians in the Province of Ontario.

Evaluation of applications will begin October 5th, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. Please forward your application, including your curriculum vitae and the names of three references, to:
